FLUENT MINDS / TAKE-HOME RESOURCES

30 reflection prompts

Pick any prompt, skip any that do not feel useful, and write in a notebook or your preferred app. There is no daily streak to keep.

1. What did I want someone to understand today?

Notes: _____

2. When did I feel listened to?

Notes: _____

3. What makes a conversation comfortable?

Notes: _____

4. What would I tell a friend who stutters?

Notes: _____

5. What idea am I glad I shared?

Notes: _____

6. What support could I ask for?

Notes: _____

7. Which person gives me time?

Notes: _____

8. What does participation mean to me?

Notes: _____

9. What went better than I expected?

Notes: _____

10. What can I make easier next time?

Notes: _____

11. What boundary do I want to set?

Notes: _____

12. What do I like about how I communicate?

Notes: _____

13. When did I choose my own pace?

Notes: _____

14. What helped on a difficult day?

Notes: _____

15. What would I like a teacher to know?

Notes: _____

16. What does a supportive listener do?

Notes: _____

17. When did I enjoy a conversation?

Notes: _____

18. What question would I like to ask?

Notes: _____

19. What am I learning about my needs?

Notes: _____

20. What can I let go of today?

Notes: _____

21. What activity makes me feel connected?

Notes: _____

22. How would I describe my strengths?

Notes: _____

23. What goal feels manageable this week?

Notes: _____

24. What did I do despite uncertainty?

Notes: _____

25. When is taking a break helpful?

Notes: _____

26. What would I like to discuss with a therapist?

Notes: _____

27. How do I want people to respond?

Notes: _____

28. What matters beyond speech fluency?

Notes: _____

29. What progress means something to me?

Notes: _____

30. What do I want to carry into next month?

Notes: _____

Educational resource, not individualized treatment. Success can mean participating and expressing yourself, with or without stuttering. More: asha.org/practice-portal/clinical-topics/fluency-disorders/